SUMMARY INFORMATION ON ACCREDITED GRADUATE SOCIAL WORK PROGRAMS 1984

EXPLANATORY NOTE

This report provides identifying information and brief statements about master's degree programs in social work accredited by the Council on Social Work Education and those in candidacy for accreditation. The report notes if the school offers a doctorate as well as a master's degree. A number of these schools offer a baccalaureate degree in social work; information may be found in another CSWE publication, Colleges and Universities with Accredited Baccalaureate Social Work Programs.

Schools are arranged in alphabetical order by "key" name of university, i.e., University of Alabama appears in the A's, not the U's. A listing by states is also provided.

Certain information, common to most if not all schools, may not be presented in the individual statement and is listed below.

Advanced standing - Most schools provide for some form of advanced standing on an individual basis; frequently this is accomplished by an examination.

Part-time study - Most schools provide for some part-time study on an individualized basis with a limited number of credits applicable toward a degree if the student matriculates within a specified period of time. The separate statements include only special structured part-time programs.

Field practicum - The arrangements described are the prevailing ones in the particular school. There may be some variations, especially in the second year, for certain types of placements. Concurrent placement means that field and class work are carried simultaneously during the semester. Block placement means that for a specified number of weeks the student spends all, or almost all, time in the field and has little or no classroom work. These field placements may be in locations other than that of the school itself.

Tuition and related charges - This item includes only specific and required fees, e.g., health services, and are the fees reported by the school as of July, 1984.

Concentrations offered - Curriculum reorganization is in process at many schools. An attempt is made only to describe the general basis for organizing the "majors" or emphases.

The National Curriculum Policy Statement of the Council on Social Work Education permits schools flexibility in developing curricula to meet their particular educational objectives. However organized, the combination of classroom instruction and related field practicum must cover three main content areas: social welfare policy and services, human behavior and the social environment, and social work practice. A research orientation and spirit of scientific inquiry are required throughout the curriculum.

Time span - The number of months from enrollment to graduation usually includes a 2-3 month summer vacation between the first and second year. Some schools, however, provide for continuous attendance, thereby shortening this overall period.

Financial aid - No information is included on stipends, scholarships or fellowships. Funds available for these purposes change from year to year and information must be sought directly from the individual school.

This summary of information regarding the graduate programs of social work has been compiled from information provided directly by the individual schools. Requests for more detailed information should be directed to the individual school.

Degrees offered: MSW
Closing date for filing applications: Rolling Admission for regular two-year applicants; December 1 for January 16-month applicants (regular program begins in January, first year completed during summer); March 1 for one-year advanced standing, work study and transfer students; March 1 for candidates from BSW programs.
Enrollment date for new students: September and January
Academic time-unit: semester
Tuition and related charges per semester: $3228
Usual number of time-units required for graduation: 4 semesters
Usual time span from enrollment to graduation: 21 months
Evening and weekend programs available.

Concentrations offered: First year - generic social work practice. Second year - choice of concentrations in direct practice including casework, group work or community organization, planning and administration, and research.

Practicum requirements: First year - concurrent placement for 30 weeks to total of 500 hours. Second year - concurrent placement for 30 weeks to total of 600 hours.

Advanced standing: Persons who have had three years of supervised paid experience in social work, two courses in social policy, two courses in human behavior and a generic process course may be accepted directly into the second year program of graduate study. Students accepted under this program are required to attend a matriculation seminar.

Graduates of CSWE accredited undergraduate social work programs with grade of B or better in social work courses and adequate field work may be admitted to the second year of graduate study upon successful completion of the matriculation seminar.

Work study: Accepted applicants employed in social service agencies with MSW supervision are eligible to apply for a work study arrangement where field instruction requirements may be met at the place of employment. A contractual agreement with the agency director is required outlining MSW supervision, assignments, and agency policy to ensure protection of the student field assignment at the agency. Following evaluation by the Field Instruction Division, arrangements may be made for work study.

Part-time study: Students accepted for the "Three Semester in Residence Program" (also known as the 27-48 credit program) are permitted to take up to 27 credits on a part-time basis and are provided with an extended field placement (500 hours) during the first semester of residence. "Extended Program" students may distribute course work over a period of five years; four semesters must be in residence. (Rolling Admission for the "27-credit" and "extended" programs) Students also enroll on a non-matriculated basis for regular and continuing education courses.

Specializations offered: Health (including maternal and child health), mental health, aging, alcoholism, family and child. Within each specialization, there is choice of mode of intervention with focus on (a) the individual, his/her family and social group; (b) the social system, including planning, development; and (c) the management of human services (available only to students with experience).

Practicum requirements: First year - concurrent placement for 30 weeks at 2-3 days per week. Second year - concurrent placement for 30 weeks at 3 days per week. (Management students have 2 days per week in second semester; 4 days per week in third and fourth semesters).

Advanced standing: Students holding the BSW degree from accredited programs are granted 15 hours credit which may be applied to required courses by passing an examination, but may be used as elective without examination. Non-BSW students may be granted up to 15 hours credit for required courses by passing examination in those courses. Students with post-baccalaureate credits in social work or related fields may apply for advanced standing, not to exceed 15 credit hours. Decisions are made on an individual basis by faculty review.

Part-time study: Part-time study is provided through two extended degree programs, one of which is work-study program for persons concurrently employed in a social agency which makes a written commitment to the study plan. (This plan is available in the evening for students in planning and management). The other is for those seeking a new career.

Joint Degree Program: Social Work and Law (MSSA/JD) - a joint degree program established by the School of Applied Social Sciences and the University's Law School which makes it possible for selected students to pursue an integrated program of studies and receive both the MSSA and JD degrees. The expected time for completion is four years. Applicants for the joint degree program must meet the admissions requirements of both professional Schools and are subject to the same criteria as any applicant.

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO, SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SERVICE ADMINISTRATION
969 EAST 60th STREET, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60637

Degrees offered: MA, PH.D.
Closing date for filing applications: Preferably February 1
Enrollment date for new students: September
Academic time-unit: quarter
Tuition and related charges per quarter: $2900
Usual number of time-units required for graduation: 6 quarters

Usual time span from enrollment to graduation: 21 months

In the master's program all students take a core program consisting of six courses out of a total of 18 courses required for graduation. The core courses encompass history and philosophy of social welfare; the practice of social intervention; human behavior in the social environment; and research and evaluation. These core courses are taken in the first year. At the end of the second quarter of the first year, students select a concentration in clinical social work practice or social administration. The social administration concentration offers cluster options in social policy, management, and community work. Individually developed concentrations are also possible.

In conjunction with their concentration students may also construct a specialization in a problem area or population group such as children services, criminal justice corrections, mental health/health care, urban policy, or survey methods for policy research.

Practicum requirements: Concurrent field instruction in the first year is conducted in conjunction with the core course on intervention. In the second year the concurrent practicum requirement is in conjunction with the concentration selected by the student.

Part-time study: Planned part-time study is available and is planned on an individual basis. A block practicum plan is possible in the part-time program. Part-time students usually take from 3 to 4 years to complete the degree.

UNIVERSITY OF IOWA, SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK
308 NORTH HALL, IOWA CITY, IOWA 52242

Degree offered: MSW
Closing date for filing applications: Until class is filled - early application advised
Enrollment date for new students: August
Academic time-unit: semester, including summer
Tuition and related charges per semester: in-state residents, $736 out-of-state residents, $1800
Usual number of time-units required for graduation: 5 semesters including one summer semester. Less with advanced standing
Usual time span from enrollment to graduation: 21 months (less with advanced standing)

Concentrations offered: A generalist program or a choice of three concentrations. Generalist option provides students with basic knowledge and skills in all three concentrations. Designed for persons desiring to move across the lines of various types of social work practice. Particularly appropriate for work in rural areas. Individual, Family and Small Group Services concentration prepares students for intervention with individuals, families and small groups. Maintains a holistic perspective, and awareness of the interrelationship between individuals and their social, political and economic environments and stresses enhancement of social functioning. Develops practice competence both as enablers of personal change and as broker/advocates. Human Services Administration concentration develops practice skills in administrative roles such as supervisor, program developer, program monitor, and program administrator. Seeks to prepare students for effective action to make human service organizations more responsive. Social Development concentration prepares students for intervention in neighborhoods, communities, and social institutions through skill development in policy analysis, investigative and documentary research, negotiation, conflict resolution, social and political action, and cooperative development processes. Focuses on developing more humanistic forms of organization and mutual support systems, and on mobilizing alienated and oppressed peoples.

Fields of Practice: Available but not required, the School has organized clusters of courses that give focus to curriculum in certain fields including: children and families; criminal justice; gerontology; health and mental health; marriage and family; school social work and rural social work. Students may also choose practicum, electives, advanced research projects, and final examination projects within these fields of practice.

Practicum requirements: Minimum of 120 days usually taken either as one concurrent practicum of 3 days per week for 10½ consecutive months or modified block practicum of 4 days per week over 8 consecutive months.

Thesis: A thesis option is available.

Advanced standing: Graduates of accredited baccalaureate social work programs are eligible for 12 semester hour reduction of credit. Student may also receive up to 12 semester hours credit for approved courses taken as a graduate student prior to admission.

Part-time study: A part-time program is available on the central campus in Iowa City and in three satellite centers (Des Moines, Davenport and Sioux City). Applications for part-time study are processed for admission for each session (fall, spring, summer).

Joint-degree programs: The school has formal agreements with the College of Law and the Department of Urban and Regional Planning for joint degrees. Students must be accepted to each department through its regular admissions process. Twelve credits in each program are applied to requirements of the other, thus reducing the time it would normally take to pursue two degrees. Individual arrangements may be made with other departments. Students have pursued joint degrees with the College of Business, the College of Education, the American Studies program, School of Religion, School of Journalism and Mass Communication, and others. Students are encouraged to take courses in other departments whether or not they are pursuing joint degrees.
